THE SCHOOL OF LAW

GENERAL STATEMENT

History.—The law school, which developed into the School of Law of the University, was founded in 1843 at Chapel Hill as a private school by William H. Battle, then a judge of the Superior Court, later a justice of the Supreme Court of the State. In 1845 Judge Battle was made Professor of Law in the University, and it was provided that the degree of Bachelor of Laws should be conferred on those completing the prescribed two-year course. From the records of the University, however, it seems that few degrees were actually conferred. For a long time the school maintained a certain independence of the University. The Professor of Law received no salary, though he enjoyed the fees from his classes, and the students were not entirely subject to the discipline of the University.

This was the position of the school from its formation until 1899, a period which covered the professorship of Judge Battle who retired in 1879, two years when the law classes were conducted by Hon. Kemp P. Battle, then President of the University, and the professorship of Dr. John Manning, elected 1881, died 1899. In 1899 the school was completely incorporated into the University, with the late Judge James C. MacRae, previously a justice of the Supreme Court of North Carolina, as the first Dean of the Law School. Upon the death of Judge MacRae in 1910, Lucius Polk McGehee was elected Dean, and held this position until his death in 1923. During the session 1923-1924, the School was under the guidance of Acting-Dean Atwell Campbell McIntosh, Professor of Law. Merton Leroy Ferson, A.B., LL.B., Professor of Law, was Dean of the School during the years 1924-25 and 1925-26; and upon his resignation Abner Leon Green, A.B., LL.B., was elected Professor of Law and Dean. During the present year Dean Green is absent on leave to fill an engagement in Yale University School of Law.

Member of the Association of American Law Schools.—The Law School is a member of the Association of American Law Schools, an association composed of sixty-one of the leading law schools in the United States, and including the law schools of such universities as Harvard, Yale, Cornell, and Chicago. The object of this association is to improve legal education in America, and member schools are required to maintain certain high standards relating to entrance requirements, faculty, library, and curriculum.

Approved Law Schools.—The American Bar Association has fixed certain standards which, in its opinion, should be observed by law schools in the preparation of applicants for admission to the practice of law, and the schools conforming to the standards are classed as "approved law schools." Such schools require at least two years of college study for entrance followed by a three year course for full time, and a longer course for part time students, and must have a sufficient number of teachers devoting their entire time to the school and an adequate library for the use of its students.

The University of North Carolina Law School has complied with these requirements and is one of sixty-four schools classed as "approved law schools."

REQUIREMENTS FOR ADMISSION

Candidates for the Degree LL.B.

Students who are candidates for the degree of LL.B. must have completed eighteen courses, or their equivalent, of college work in subjects approved by the Registrar of the University. Students may not enter at the opening of the second term as applicants for the degree nor, except by special permission of the Dean, in preparation for the examination for license.

Students Not Candidates For the Degree

Students taking regular work in the school, but not candidates for the degree, unless they are "special students," must present fifteen units for entrance credits in the Freshman class in the University and at least two full years (eighteen courses or the equivalent) of college grade work, or work that would entitle them to enter the third or junior class in the University.

Special Students

A limited number of persons who are twenty-one years of age or over may be admitted as special students upon satisfying the Law Faculty that they have such training and ability as will enable them to profit by the instruction given in the school. The number of special students admitted each year may not exceed ten per cent of the average number of students first entering the school during the two preceding years.

Admission to Advanced Standing

A student from another school of law, in which the requirements for admission are at least as high as in this school, may be admitted to advanced standing for the degree of LL.B. As a rule no more than one year's work will be so credited without residence, but with the consent of the Law Faculty, two years' work may be credited in exceptional cases. A student seeking admission to advanced standing must present satisfactory evidence that the work taken in another school is substantially equivalent to that given in the corresponding year here, both in the character of the work covered and in the amount of time devoted to each subject.

DEGREES

The Degree of LL.B.

The degree of Bachelor of Laws (LL.B) is conferred upon a regular student who has studied law for a period of at least three academic years and passed satisfactory examinations on all required subjects and enough elective subjects to make up an aggregate of eighty-four semester hours.

The Degrees of A.B. and LL.B.

The University offers a combined course in the College of Liberal Arts and in the Law School by completing which students may receive the two degrees of A.B. and LL.B. in six years instead of the seven years required for the two degrees in the regular course.

Upon the completion of the courses in the College of Liberal Arts outlined below before matriculation in the Law School, and the completion of the first two years of Law, students may receive the degree of A.B., and upon the completion of the third year in the Law School, the degree of LL.B.

Prescribed courses in the College of Liberal Arts for the two degrees of A.B. and LL.B.:

*Latin 1, 2, 3, 5 are to be taken by students who have presented only two units for entrance. In case the student is required to pursue only Latin 3, 5, or 2, 3, 5, the number of electives is increased to make up the difference. In every case 27 courses of college grade must be completed.

The Law School recommends that at least one of these courses be advanced composition, Eng. 21.

The Law School recommends that the courses in History and Government be courses in English and American History or Government.

The A.B. degree, on this basis, is conferred at the end of the fifth year (second year in Law) provided the student has satisfactorily passed 60 semester hours in the Law School.

The Degree of S.B. in Commerce and LL.B.

The University offers a combined course which leads to the degree of S.B. in Commerce at the end of five years and LL.B. at the end of six years.

The first three years of this combined course are in the School of Commerce and are devoted to the subjects outlined below. The last three years are in the Law School and are devoted to the courses prescribed for the LL.B. degree.

3. Obtain an average grade of B on all required subjects and enough elective subjects to make up an aggregate of 84 semester hours.

†The total requirement in modern language is three courses of collegiate grade based upon 2 units completed in high school or the equivalent in the elementary courses taken here.

ATTENDANCE, EXAMINATIONS, GRADES, ELIMINATION OF STUDENTS

ATTENDANCE.—A student who is absent more than ten per cent of the total class hours in any subject will be denied credit in that subject unless his absences are excused by the Dean. The Dean is not expected to excuse an absence for any cause after the total absences in a subject amount to 20 per cent of the total class hours in that subject.

EXAMINATIONS.—Written examinations are held at the close of the first half year in subjects which are then completed and at the close of the year in all other subjects.

GRADES.—The grading of students will be indicated by the letters A, B, C, D, E, and F, representing respectively excellent, good, satisfactory, fair, conditioned, and failed. A student receiving the grade of F (failed) in any subject will be required to repeat the course. A student receiving the grade of E (conditioned) on any subject will be required to repeat the course unless he passes with a grade of C the next examination for the removal of conditions, which will be held during registration week of the succeeding autumn.

ELIMINATION OF STUDENTS.—A student must obtain a grade of D or better in at least three-fourths of the total number of semester hours for which he registers, and any student who fails to do so shall thereby automatically be excluded from further work in the school. He may be reinstated upon such showing and upon such conditions as may be required by the Law Faculty.

NUMBER OF HOURS OF WORK REQUIRED AND PERMITTED

Students are not permitted to take more than sixteen hours of work weekly except with the special permission of the Faculty, granted only for good cause.

No student taking fewer than ten hours weekly will be considered as studying law within the rule of the Supreme Court requiring two years of study of law as a necessary preliminary of applicants for license to practice in North Carolina.

DIVISION OF ACADEMIC YEAR: DATES

Work in the School is divided into two semesters instead of into three quarters. The first semester begins at the same time as the fall quarter of the College of Liberal Arts, and ends on the last Saturday in January. The second semester begins on Monday after the last Saturday in January and ends at the same time as the third quarter of the College of Liberal Arts.

METHOD OF INSTRUCTION

The chief aims of the School of Law are to train students thoroughly in the principles of the common law, to develop their power of legal reasoning, and to teach the fundamentals of North Carolina practice. The case method of instruction is used to attain these ends. The relative advantages of this method are no longer debated. More than 90 per cent of the members of the Association of American Law Schools have adopted it. This method discloses the common law principles, not as mere sequences of words—but as living forces. The analysis and interpretation of cases under a fire of Socratic questioning tends to develop in a student the mental acuteness and accuracy which mark a real lawyer. The case method provides an education of ideas rather than words, establishes an active and critical rather than a passive attitude, and produces real mental power rather than facility in repeating definitions, maxims, and high sounding phrases. The modern law school with this improved method of instruction has much greater relative advantages over office reading than had law schools of an earlier period, when they were looked upon merely as a means of imparting information.

AIM OF THE SCHOOL

The aim of the school is to develop competent lawyers and not merely to prepare students for the bar examination. The course extends over three years, and subjects are offered in what seems the most advantageous sequence. Students are required to follow the order of the curriculum and one who stops before completing it will not have a comprehensive or adequate legal education. While no particular attention is paid to preparing men for the bar examination our students have been successful in passing it. Indeed, no one, after graduating from this school, has failed, so far as those now administering the school are aware, to pass the bar examination of this state on his first attempt.

SUBJECTS OF INSTRUCTION

The subjects marked with an asterisk are prescribed for the degrees of Doctor of Law or Bachelor of Laws. The student may elect the remainder of his subjects. Third-year students may elect subjects of the second year not previously studied.

First-year Subjects

THE NEW LAW BUILDING

The Law School is now in its new building, known as Manning Hall. The building occupies a prominent place in the new group of University buildings and is well provided with ample accommodations for lecture halls, library, and reading rooms.

THE NORTH CAROLINA LAW REVIEW

The North Carolina Law Review, issued quarterly, is published by the Law School. It is devoted to the discussion of legal problems and new cases, especially those of interest to North Carolina lawyers. The opportunity afforded the more advanced students, whose work is of high grade, to take part in the preparation and management of the Review, should be of the greatest advantage to them and an incentive to the highest effort.

LAW CLUBS AND LAW SCHOOL ASSOCIATION

The students in the Law School are organized into three clubs, each club including members from the various classes. The work in the clubs takes the form of argument of cases before appellate courts. The arguments of the first-year students are within the clubs, while the arguments of the second-year and third-year students are between the clubs.

These clubs join together in the Law School Association, with the sole purpose of promoting the interests of the Law School. The presidents of the clubs form a board of directors of the Association, and the members of the Law School faculty together with representatives of the University administration form a board of advisers.

PRIZES

The Callaghan Prize in Law. A copy of the Cyclopedic Law Dictionary is offered by Callaghan and Co., Law Publishers, to that member of the senior class each year who obtains the highest general average in his work for the year.

LEGAL RESEARCH PRIZE. Offered by the American Law Book Company, is given to the student who makes the highest average in the Legal Research Course.

ADDITIONAL OPPORTUNITIES OF UNIVERSITY LIFE

Students in the Law School may be admitted without additional expense to the courses given in the departments of Economics, English, Philosophy, and History in the College of Liberal Arts, subject to the rules stated as to the number of hours which a student may take, and subject to the approval of the Dean of the School of Law. A student taking such a course must satisfy the entrance requirements for the course selected.

Students of the School may become members of the Dialectic and Philanthropic Literary Societies, where they may take part in or witness debates of a high order and train themselves in parliamentary law.

As students of the University, they enjoy all the privileges of the University library, the University gymnasium, and the organizations of the University generally, literary, social, and athletic.

TERMS

The Summer Law School for 1927 will have two terms of five weeks each. The first term will begin June 14 and run to July 20; and the second term will begin July 21 and run to August 26.

PURPOSE

The purpose of the Summer School is to give courses for credit, as in the regular session, which will supplement the work done in the regular year and enable the student to shorten the period of study required for a degree. It is estimated that a student may complete the course for a degree in two regular years and three summer sessions.

Students who are not applicants for a degree may receive credit for courses given in preparation for the examination for license; and those who expect to take the bar examination in August may thus receive additional credits and also receive assistance in reviewing subjects in which they already have credit.

Members of the bar, who are not seeking credit for a degree, will have an opportunity to take the courses given in the subjects in which they may be especially interested.

CREDIT

The subjects selected for the summer school work will enable those who are beginning the study of law to receive credit for two first-year subjects; and advanced students may receive credit for two second-year and two third-year subjects. The character of the instruction and the grade of work required will be the same as that in the regular college year.

Each subject will be given for seven hours a week for five weeks, and the regular work will be fourteen hours a week. Written examinations will be given on each subject completed at the end of each term; and no credit will be given except for the subjects regularly given in the term. Students who are applicants for a degree may receive two and one-half semester hours credit for each subject completed in each term, and it is possible to receive ten semester hours credit during the summer session.

REQUIREMENTS FOR ADMISSION

The same requirements for admission will apply to the summer session as in the regular college year, both as to regular and special students. These requirements will not apply to members of the bar who may wish to take work without receiving credit.

REGISTRATION

Registration of students will take place on June 13 in the Law Library; and the registration fees are to be paid to the Secretary of the Law School at the time of registration. Certificates for academic credits should be filed with the Registrar of the University, to be passed upon by him; and certificates for work in another law school should be filed with the Dean of the Law School at or before registration.

FEES

Tuition for the Summer Session	$35.00
Registration and incidental fees	12.00

A reduction will be made for students who do not wish to take both summer terms. Information as to rooms may be had by writing to the Business Office of the University. Textbooks may be purchased from the University Book Exchange.
